FOCUS: The purpose of creating a slave tour about the Old Governor's Mansion is to interpret antebellum life through the perspective of slaves and the free persons who worked here. The standard tour at the Old Governor's Mansion already acknowledges aspects of the lives of the slaves, however this presentation is the typical "top down" history which focuses on the lives of the governors, their families and their prominent guests. This tour will present a "bottom up" view of the Old Governor's Mansion.

This is a unique opportunity that you do not want to miss!

Reservations are required to participate and can be made by calling the Mansion offices at 478-445-4545. Reservations are due the day before each program.
