Historical Lender List

The Georgia College Private Education Historical Lender List is representative of lenders that GCSU students frequently choose. Lenders listed below are presented in random order.

This is not an endorsement of the named lenders by Georgia College. Any and all lenders and private loan certifications will be reviewed without preference for or against any lender. Students will be evaluated for their private education loan based exclusively off their eligibility. Georgia College does not provide information regarding individual lender programs, rates, benefits, or requirements. We do not distribute lender information and encourage all potential borrowers to explore their options regarding private loans. Students may request loan certifications from lenders not listed below.

Reminders for Borrowers

- Compare interest rates between lenders.
- Consider your federal loan eligibility and compare the interest rate to those offered by private lenders.
- Compare rates and offerings between for-profit and non-profit lenders.
- If you have a personal bank or credit union, they may offer more competitive rates.
- Maintain contact with your loan servicer. If you have difficulty making payments or enroll less than half-time, please reach out to them.
- Georgia College cannot certify loans across aid years. Subsequent aid years will require an additional loan certification request.
