

Jolene Cole, Associate Professor of Library Science has her B.A. in History from St. Vincent College and a MLIS from Simmons College, Boston.

Jolene currently serves as Russell Library's instruction coordinator and teaches the GC1Y "Research in the Age of Google". She is the chair of the Regents Academic Committee on Libraries Information Literacy Working Group and the program chair for the Atlanta Area Bibliographic Instruction group. She has served as the co-chair for the Digital Polarization Initiative a pilot project/study in conjunction with ten other universities organized by the American Democracy Project for Georgia College and was the founding co-chair for the Central Georgia Libraries

Unconference. She's published and presented on numerous topics related to information literacy and the challenges and issues of modern research.