

Dr. Nicole M. DeClouette is an Associate Professor of Special Education at Georgia College & State University. Dr. DeClouette received her Ph.D. in Special Education from Syracuse University after completing her dissertation on whole-school inclusive reform. She leads two study abroad programs to London/Paris and to Tanzania. She also served as the Presiding Officer of the Georgia College University Senate. Dr. DeClouette values her community-based partnership with Baldwin County's Life Enrichment Center (LEC), a program that serves adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities. She serves on the LEC's Executive Board, on the Creative Enrichment Center's Advisory Board, and as the faculty advisor for the Georgia College Chapter of Best Buddies. Dr. DeClouette's research includes cultural constructions of disability and international inclusive education. She serves as secretary for the Council for Exceptional Children's (CEC) Division of International Special Education and Services (DISES).
